The Batavia Riverwalk is located on a 12-acre peninsula adjacent to the Depot Museum in the heart of downtown Batavia. The Riverwalk was created over a six year period through the cooperative efforts of the Batavia Park District, the City of Batavia and a dedicated group of community members primarily using volunteer labor and donated materials and services.

The North Point Pavilion provides a grand view of the river to both the north and south. Walkers will encounter the Batavia dam as well as the Wildflower Sanctuary. A bridge connects pedestrians and bicyclists to the eastside of the river where they can access the eastern leg of the Fox River Bike Trail. For information about renting the Peg Bond Center or North Point Pavilion, please call 630-879-5235.

"The Boardwalk was renovated in 2014 thanks to efforts by the Batavia Parks Foundation and a large group of volunteers."
